Revision of the European Citizens’ Initiative

Important steps, dates and documents

The European Citizens’ Initiative (ECI) was implemented on 1 April 2012 as a politically innovative instrument that offers citizens the possibility to launch legislative proposals at EU level. The first three years of experience have revealed major flaws of the ECI, including technical problems, legal limits, difficulties to mobilise signatures, low awareness of the ECI and negligent political response.

In total, 52 ECI proposals have been submitted to the European Commission, 40% were refused registration, only three managed to fulfil all requirements to be successfully submitted to the Commission (‘Water as a Human Right’, ‘One of us’ and ‘Stop Vivisection’), and so far none have led to a legislative proposal. Since 2012 the number of submitted ECIs has been progressively decreasing. While 2012 saw 23 ECIs be submitted, in 2015 there have been only two ECI proposals. See detailed information on all 52 ECIs at http://ec.europa.eu/citizens-initiative/public/welcome.

Review process and positions

The EU regulation on the European Citizens’ Initiative foresees a review every three years to analyse the implementation of the ECI with a view to necessary improvements. The first review is prescribed for 2015.

Commission’s position on ECI

The European Commission issued a report on 31 March 2015 reviewing the implementation of the ECI. While the report understood the major technical and legal obstacles in starting and running ECIs, the Commission has been slow in recognising the political significance of the ECI. See the Commission’s Report on the Application of the Regulation on the Citizens’ Initiative.

Parliament’s position on ECI

The European Parliament, in return, has been convinced that the ECI requires greater improvements to make it viable and to unleash its political potential. The Committee on Constitutional Affairs of the Parliament (AFCO) wrote on 19 March a draft report including its stance on the ECI and its vision for necessary revisions. See the Parliament’s Draft Report on the European Citizens’ Initiative.
Members of AFCO subsequently submitted amendments to the draft report, suggesting further revisions to the ECI. See AFCO’s amendments. On 21 September, the coordinators of AFCO condensed these amendments to form around 80 compromise amendments. Parliamentarians sitting on AFCO will vote on these amendments on 28 September. All Members of the European Parliament will vote on the final report in the plenary sitting of the Parliament in late October or early November (date still to be confirmed).

Position of the Council of the European Union
The Council of the European Union expressed its opinion on the ECI in the Item Note of the Council on 11 June 2015. The Council proposed measures to address the flaws of the ECI, however while some delegations expressed the urgent need to address the ECI’s shortcomings, other delegations queried about the downside of a revision of the ECI.

The positions adopted by the EU institutions will form the basis of the ensuing negotiations between the Commission, Parliament and Council. A final agreement regarding a revision of the ECI will be made at the beginning of 2016.

Opinions of other EU bodies
Other EU bodies have also written opinions regarding the necessary revisions to the ECI. The European Ombudsman issued an own-initiative inquiry regarding the Commission’s role and responsibility concerning the ECI on 4 March. The Committee of the Regions adopted a Draft Opinion on the ECI on 22 June. The European Economic and Social Committee recognises itself as facilitator and institutional mentor with regard to the ECI.

Campaign of Democracy International
The ECI is the fruit of advocacy and campaign work led by Democracy International together with a coalition of 110 civil society actors and 41 members of the European Parliament in the context of the Convention on the Future of Europe (2001-2002). Consequently, the ECI was adopted in the Lisbon Treaty (Art. 11.4).

In the current review of the ECI regulation, Democracy International developed concrete recommendations for an improvement of the ECI and engaged in lengthy dialogues with representatives of the EU institutions regarding a meaningful reform. See Democracy International’s recommendations, which flowed into the Parliament’s report and amendments, the Council’s position and the Committee of the Regions’ opinion.

Simultaneously, Democracy International has run campaign initiatives to encourage broader debate regarding the future of the ECI. In an ECI petition calling for a meaningful reform of the ECI to strengthen direct democracy in Europe, Democracy International collected more than 20,000 signatures. In preparation to AFCO’s vote on the report and the amendments, Democracy International launched an email drive encouraging citizens to write to their MEPs and pressure them to vote for a revision of the ECI. Over 80,000 emails have been sent to the members of AFCO.
